RECOMMENDATIONS

- Start off at South Bermondsey and work your way back west. There's a 1km walk between Affinity Brew and The Kernel and it's easier to make that walk on fewer beers. The breweries on the South Bermondsey side are more spaced out so you'll need to be alert and checking your map.
- Or you do one half from London Bridge and the other from South Bermondsey on another day.
- Go on a Saturday late morning / early afternoon if you want to visit all the breweries.
- There are 16 breweries in total. If you are doing the whole mile, consider not buying a whole pint in each brewery. Many sell 1/3 pints, 1/2 pints, 2/3 pints and full pints.

NEAREST STATIONS

SOUTH BERMONDSEY TRAIN STATION

Take a train to South Bermondsey train station to start at the southern end of the Bermondsey Beer Mile. Just a short walk off Rotherhithe New Road you will get to your first brewery pit stop - Fourpure Brewing Co.

LONDON BRIDGE TRAIN STATION

Get off at London Bridge and head east towards Tower Bridge Road. Across Tower Bridge Road you will find Druid Street where the main section of the Bermondsey Beer Mile lies. Don't be put off by its residential appearance. It's there - honest!
